GIFT OF
POT POURRI BOARD

ONCE again a senior class has played out its part in the history of Andover.

The Andover Shop expresses appreciation for the part it has been privileged to play in the success of the class of 1931 through providing correct dress in keeping with their high standards.

We sincerely hope that we may have the opportunity for continued service through LANGROCK shops at Yale, Harvard, Brown, Williams, Princeton, or New York City at 49 Broadway.

CLASS HISTORY

Junior Year

THE Andover vocabulary of "ex", "non-ex", "Pro", and "Prep" was introduced to another group of new boys in September, 1927, when a slightly bewildered set of juniors arrived to find themselves the center of a questionable type of prominence. Many of these boys, who found that their distinguished title was "prep", became almost nocturnal alley-prowlers in endeavoring to avoid the classic call of "Hey, 'prep', come here!" All this passed soon with the usual parade and muttered remarks of revenge on the next year's set. In this, unfortunately, there was a mistake, for the wisdom of the senior class decreed that there was to be no "prepping" except by seniors.

When this was over, every one seemed promptly to forget us, and we then tried to discover just what we were and what was expected of us. Apparently the school could get along perfectly without worrying greatly over us, and in our ignominy we turned to examine our immediate surroundings. The class was quite naturally divided into two rather distinct divisions, composed of Williams Hall boys on one side, and on the other of those who were not. In Williams Hall, where friendships were easily and naturally formed, was Mr. Phillips, who in the first house meeting admonished the boys thus: "A fair percentage of you will not last through the four years here, but as I do not know who they are, I advise you to get to work." With these wise words ringing in their ears, work started in earnest. It was not, however, all dull work, for diversion was provided by Peter Cornwall, who had a deep yen, not shared by the third floor boys, for castles. Due to this interest and the objection to discussing it, Peter found that a gang was necessary; so the second floor boys became the Lancastrians, while the third floor ones were the Yorks, and the war was on. In a slightly anachronistic fashion water pistols were used as the chief weapons, although the Lancastrian leader and some of his men did use swords in duels with the enemy. It appears that hostilities were terminated by the eventual dropping of the Lancastrian leader in a rather large mud puddle by the Yorks, who at that moment were led by one who further distinguished himself by breaking four windows of a neighboring house during the spring baseball season.

In the other houses, mostly the small private ones, where dwelt the rest of the class, the amusement was of a bit different sort—perhaps even a bit more intense and enjoyable while it lasted, in order to cover a certain amount of lonesomeness induced by the difficulty to know any one and the feeling of isolation induced by the smaller houses. A high-light of this, as we recall, was the remembrance of a house professor dragging a small wooden dog up and down the hall while the members of the house timed him.

No account of this year is complete without mentioning the Sesquicentennial celebration and the preparation for it—how we enthusiastically drilled for hours, pivoting around Messrs. Peck and Barss—how the face of the campus was lifted and smoothed out,—and finally how exciting the actual celebration was with speeches, parades, and the presence of the President of the United States.

King Howard

Lower Middle Year

RETURNING in the fall of our Lower Middle year, we, the Seniors of 1931, found, much to our surprise and satisfaction, that we were slowly breaking away from the surrounding mis's that had been so prevalent during our Junior year. Now we were out of Williams Hall and at last up in the dormitories with the more mature element of the school, every one of us eager to enter any or all of the various school activities. It was a great feeling to be out on our own, developing responsibilities, standing on our own feet, and contracting our own debts. Many who had left the preceding spring in knickerbockers were returning now in manly long pants, and in all we were growing up, for we were Lower Middlers.

Almost before we realized it the Exeter football game was upon us, and with much spirit and excitement we were on hand with our little blue megaphones and still somewhat squeaky but willing voices. It was a thrilling victory for Andover on Brothers Field, and we were proud of Ed King and Gardner, our lone representatives on that team. Likewise the Soccer season proved very successful, due in part to the efforts of our own Jim Wolcott. Indeed we were even at that period quite a potential crowd and in our own conceited way felt that when 1931 finally did roll around, the school was going to be well aware of our august presence.

Christmas vacation came at last, and how eagerly we rushed home to our fond parents, who were now so proud of their little Lower Middlers. In glowing fashion did we tell our friends how important a factor we were becoming in the school life now that we had reached such an advanced point in the realms of dignity and maturity. After having purchased our galoshes and sheepskins, we were soon back in the swing of things and were settling down for that Winter period of intense concentrated application. And the Winter term at Andover could hardly be mentioned without a passing thrust at the weather, cold, snow, and slush in the order named with a decided accent on the last item. The Exeter contests, Basketball and Swimming, were not to be, since an epidemic of measles came over the school, causing the contests to be called off. However, we must not overlook the fact that Kellogg played on the Basketball team all that season and was elected to lead the 1930 team. Fry, Norm King, and Laundon were our natators, and once again the class tallied as Fry was made captain of the Swimming team. To be sure, we were gaining momentum at every turn. The defeat of the Hockey team was in part assuaged a little later when we discovered that, on account of those pesky Measles, we were to get extra days on our Spring recess, much to the utter disgust of the faculty and to the disappointment of our parents.

Attired in swank ensembles, including everything sartorial from Gabardines to Harris Tweeds, we returned that Spring, eagerly anticipating those balmy Spring afternoons of which we had had a bit of a taste the year before. Dushesne and Ed King were important factors in the victory over Exeter in Track, while in the Baseball game it was King again who upheld the honor of our group. Another wonderful year was drawing to a close. Gladly we prepared to leave for our summer vacations but not without the thought that we were to have two more wonderful years before us.

Martin Donahoe

Upper Middle Year

At the end of "Prep" week final chastisement was denied us as the Senior Council had decreed an end to the traditional parade. That move was an unconscious omen; for the year was to be featured by the breaking of traditions.

All fall, interest was divided between the football team and the demolition of the old library. After the team had been conquered by Exeter in a close but disappointing game, the library had the field to itself, and the wrecking crew was never without its crowd of admiring onlookers. The soccer team provided one of the bright spots of the fall when it scored its second consecutive victory over the crimson 2 to 1. Then came snow and winter and Christmas vacation.

After New Year the rather grim routine of the most difficult term of all soon settled upon us, but monotony was avoided by impromptu hockey games, skiing, and skating excursions. Exeter, at the very apex of her athletic power, administered defeats in hockey, swimming, basketball, and relay; and from the caverns of New Hampshire drifted to our ears muffled sounds of guffaws and backslapping as Exeter settled down to a winter of superiority. We merely smiled weakly and looked toward the spring. Came March and Easter vacation, brief but pleasant, and then the last term. New England springs, in contrast to her winters, perhaps, are wonderful and beautiful to behold. By now we had learned to appreciate them despite the mud.

The Spring afforded a number of sensations. Exeter (this business was getting beyond a joke) broke an eight year jinx and walked off with the track meet. A week later we salvaged something out of the wreck by winning a memorable and remarkable baseball game, 3 to 1. But both of these things took place near the end of the year; meantime other events of note had stirred the conservative Andover atmosphere.

One fine morning, May 1st, to be exact, the usual crowd of Andover students attended the usually very dignified Andover May-day Breakfast and turned the affair into a very unusual uproar, in the course of which Officer McBride was bombarded with everything but the town hall. Several well directed and skillfully executed barrages of potatoes were laid down, one Abbot girl was hit by a misguided doughnut, and a few of the townspeople stepped inadvisedly into the path of bits of flying food. At any rate, within the next twenty-four hours, it was announced over the radio no less than four times, that the Andover boys were rioting and carrying all before them. Harassed mothers called up the Academy from the middle west and beyond to find out if little Johnny had been hurt. They should have known better; if little Johnny's arm was any good, he had probably had a share in the damage himself. As a matter of actual fact the performance was considerably, aye miraculously, squelched by a rumor that the headmaster was on his way to the scene, and by the time he did arrive the great majority of Academy "rioters" were well on their way up the hill and still going.

Then, too, the Junior Prom Committee made the error of suggesting that white flannels be worn to the Prom instead of the ordinary tuxedos. A near civil war was the result, and the ultra-conservative columns of THE PHILLIPIAN, editorial and otherwise, were well nigh torn to shreds in the sartorial skirmishes that followed. Oh yes, it was a year that most of us will remember clearly and vividly long after the others have slipped into the uncertain recesses of hazy memory. It was a year which saw the end of the famous old eating house system, the revival of the MIRROR, the erection and completion of Oliver Wendell Holmes and notorious Paul Revere, and a great deal of rain.

Senior Year

LATE in September, we, as the class of 1931, arrived at the final stage of our Andover career, and, conscious of our somewhat doubtful seniority, set about the task of joining another link to the chain of academic years, a link which we hoped would equal any other in quality, strength, and beauty. Here was a gigantic labor, for our predecessors had made great records, but, being imbued with that thing which is Andover, we will have completed our job well done, and it remains for those who will to judge.

Upon our arrival we were confronted by a new phenomenon, which soon became a dilemma, in the form of the "new beanery". Like an army we make progress in proportion to the degree of satisfaction of our stomachs, and, if the food question had not straightened itself out within a few weeks, the school would have been at a standstill. Another question which arose from this Epicurean temple was how would the different classes conduct themselves when gathered under its vaulted roof. As seniors we had to set the example in correct and manly deportment for the other classes. In our new dining hall we hope that we have established a new and lasting Andover tradition.

On the football field Coach Shepard was faced by the unpromising material which he knows so well how to develop into a winning team. Relying a great deal on the previous year's "grey jersey" squad, he put the Blue through a hard preliminary season with moderate success, and by winning an extraordinary Exeter game capped the fall term with joy. From the kick-off to the final whistle the score swung first to one team and then to the other. As dusk settled between the goal posts in the last few minutes of play, the Blue, coming from behind to win by a score of 20-16, put the ball over the Red line. The team deserves its sincerely given praise, especially Captain Edward King, whose masterly fingering of the ball made possible the catching of sixteen out of twenty-one attempted passes. At this time the school's newest organization, the P. A. Band, made a very successful début. On the Saturday following the football game, the soccer team further depressed Exeter stock by winning its final game by a score of 3-0. It can easily be seen why the Christmas which eventually came was a merry one.

Returning from vacation in January, we settled down to wait for Spring and, in the meanwhile, to endure such a winter as only Massachusetts can bring forth. Towards the end of the term many of us tired of seeing nature as she preferred to be, and, donning smoked glasses, gazed at the world through a dark haze. The adherents of this fad were said to have pink-eye, a disease claimed to be mental rather than physical. In the middle of February a fighting but inexperienced hockey team lost to Exeter by a score of 1-6. Exeter's supremacy, however, was short lived, for the Andover swimming and basketball teams decisively conquered their chief rivals later in the term.

Spring vacation has come and gone, and we must settle down to the task of graduation. It will only be when graduation exercises, the spring prom, and college boards fill the air that we shall realize that we must leave the mother who has nurtured us from carefree youths to knowing men. Our class will be the last to graduate from the old stone chapel, and next year, symbolical of progressive change, the building we have known so well will be discarded for a newer and more splendid one. Thus will the school ever progress and change, and, say what we will, we shall ever be Andover men. Let us, therefore, be proud of it—lest we forget.

Cum Laude Society

Gamma Chapter

Charter Granted 1907

Initiation service of the Honorary Scholarship Society, Cum Laude, with an address delivered by President Malcolm W. Wallace, Ph.B., of University College, Toronto, Canada.

This Society aims to bestow that recognition upon high scholarship in the preparatory schools which the Phi Beta Kappa Society gives it in our colleges and universities.

These members of the class of nineteen hundred and thirty were elected to membership in the Cum Laude Society on the basis of their superior scholarship in all subjects for their Senior year.

OFFICERS OF MUSICAL CLUBS

ALTHOUGH the combined Musical Clubs this year were denied the leadership of Dr. Platteicher due to his sabbatical year which he has spent studying abroad, they were extremely fortunate in getting Mr. Frederic H. Young as their organist and leader. Mr. Young not only succeeded in getting admirable results in the Choir and Glee Club, as well as the Orchestra, but he has made it a very interesting year from the interscholastic standpoint, for the clubs made trips to Colby and Rogers Hall, as well as entertaining here at a tea dance, and having as their guests the Exeter Musical Clubs for their annual concert on April 11.

Nineteen Thirty-one will probably be longest remembered in musical circles here because of the innovation of a Phillips Academy Band, for it was distinctly gratifying to be able for the first time to equal our New Hampshire rivals as they brought their band to the athletic contests of the season. Due to the tireless efforts of Mr. Young and Mr. Ives from Boston, who drilled the new organization, the band was not only able to participate in the athletic programs, but also to give several concerts in the Meeting Room.

Another of the outstanding achievements of the Musical Clubs for this year was the Easter program which they presented in conjunction with the choir of Christ Church, Andover. The Lenten Cantata, "The Crucifixion" by Stainer, was the work presented. It is sincerely hoped that this new feature as well as the band will be permanently incorporated in the scope of future Musical Club activities.

THE final production of the Dramatic Club of last year was that highly amusing comedy of Kaufman and Connelly called Dulcy. It was presented at commencement, June 12th, 1930. We need not say that it was up to the high standards of the P. A. Dramatic Club, if not beyond. However, we do want to give special mention to S. G. Wolf, Jr., for the unusually fine portrayal he gave of a very attractive, but altogether too nervous wife. The naturalness of the players was the most outstanding characteristic of the entire performance. Mr. Wilkinson was the director in place of Mr. Heely, the latter being on leave.

This year's production of the winter term was a great success called The Queen's Husband by Robert Emmet Sherwood. Mr. Heely was back on the job again and brought out every bit of talent in the players. Max F. Millikan was the star. He portrayed to perfection a care-free king, who would rather play checkers with his butler than take care of a revolution which was in progress. R. P. Griffing was the beautiful princess, and S. G. Wolf, the hard and patriotic queen. The movie The Royal Bed was based on the story of this play.

PHILLO, founded in 1825 by Horatio Hackett and three friends, is responsible for the establishment of nearly all the literary organizations that Andover has ever had. In the beginning, the Philomathean Society was regarded as a social fraternity, a rival to the secret societies, but in a very few years this part of its activity was discontinued, and the members wholeheartedly undertook to advance oration and literary work in the school.

In 1854 the Philo-Mirror, then just the minutes of the meetings, was founded, and soon afterward the first Pot Pourri or Masque as it was then called, was established by the Society. The two publications became so popular that Philo could not handle both and was forced to let the school edit them.

In previous years questions that had interested the whole school had been fought out in the old Society Hall, and sometimes the discussions waxed so furious that the decisions were carried over to the next meeting.

However, at the beginning of the nineties Philo's debates suffered a lapse in popularity. A few secessionists, thinking that competition was needed, formed a rival debating club called Forum, and between the two organizations many points of interest were furiously fought out. Philo at that time went even further than debating, for they gave short plays and enacted mock trials and faculty meetings. So much interest was created at these that the first Dramatic Club was founded by the Society.

This year Philo arranged a series of inter-dormitory debates which attracted the attention of the entire school, and stimulated the growing interest in debating. Considerable rivalry characterized this year's activities, as each dormitory furnished cheering sections and ardent supporters who increased the excitement and intensity of the debate, and spurred the representatives of the respective houses to stronger arguments. Under Mr. Wilkinson's guidance, interesting topics though not all pertinent to the school, were agreed upon as subjects for debate.

Andover again met Exeter's debating team this year, losing by a fairly narrow margin in a highly interesting encounter.

ABOUT the oldest organization in Andover is the Society of Inquiry. From the time of its inception in 1833 it has been connected with the religious activities, in the school, as well as out. Its part in the school is this: On Sunday evenings during the winter term speakers are invited to talk in Peabody House. Their subjects range over a broad field, from religion to Russia, and all are of primary interest to the students. Most of these Sunday night meetings are featured by open discussions after the address. During these discussions many questions are asked by the audience. Such informality allows the boys to sound much deeper the great minds of the men who talk. Dr. Allyn K. Foster, a favorite with the students, was here again this year. Julien Brian brought with him very interesting movies of his trip through modern Russia. Prof. Allan Locke, the first negro Rhodes scholar, gave an address entitled: "The Rise of the New Negro". A few others were: Leo Katz, prominent painter; Dr. Walter Kotschnig, and Reverend Leslie Glen.

Outside of school the Society does charity work. It conducts one big drive at the beginning of the first term so the students are not bothered by several small amounts. An old clothes drive was held for the needy around Andover. At Christmas time Tuberculosis Seals were sold.

Mr. Trowbridge was the faculty adviser again this year.

THE OPEN DOOR COMMITTEE is an organization whose duty is to welcome visiting teams, providing for them proper accommodations such as meals, lockers, transportation to and from trains, and any other necessities. This duty is somewhat thankless, and because of this, has up to this year been frequently inadequately accomplished, and sometimes even shirked. This year, however, under the competent leadership of Lindenberg and the guidance of Mr. Hagenbuckle, who is taking Mr. Roth's place as faculty adviser on his leave of absence, the committee has continued to rise to its present highly commendable degree of efficiency and resourcefulness. May gratitude be extended, moreover, not only to the chairman, but to each individual member, for having performed their task so well that the Open Door has been recognized in the school and on the campus as an organization perfected and honored.

Three Upper Middlers are chosen each year in the spring term to form the basis of the committee for the following year. These three, consequently, in the fall term elect six other members, so that the organization shall consist of nine men, one from each society, and one representing the majority of the school.

Toc H

STUDENTS, faculty, and others have watched with interest this newly formed society among our students, and have been agreeably surprised and enthusiastic to learn of its splendid work. It is a small group, but is sincere in its desire to join with the others in the world movement of "Toc H" to remove hatred from the world, and to work for the Kingdom of God by starting with actual work jobs of service in the school community.

Throughout the winter, several of the members have discovered work which needed doing with several of the local scout troops at the Andover Guild, with Sunday schools, and among the very poor of the city. Magazines are collected for the infirmary and the Lawrence Hospital, and two very successful old clothes drives for the poor of the town netted an abundance of badly needed clothing during these hard times of unemployment. Baskets of food at Thanksgiving and Christmas were presented to especially needy families. Odd jobs here and there have meant for the members a busy and interesting year. Such activities are highly educational, and the boys invariably gain much from them.

When the Lawrence Strike was settled, "Toc H" invited one of the "Citizens Committee" to tell the group the whole story of the strike, its causes, issues, and settlement. He gave the boys a clear idea of this local crisis.

After this, about eighteen boys visited one of the local woolen mills, and were shown through the whole process of cloth manufacture, which gave them a clearer insight into industrial processes and problems. It is hoped that several such trips to local factories and interesting centers will be arranged in the future.

PHILLIPPIAN BOARD

SINCE The Phillippian first started on the upward grade towards success two years ago under the competent leadership of Richard J. Walsh, the paper has improved in quality and increased in popularity due to the untiring efforts of the Editor-in-Chief, Lee Perot Howard, the Managing Editor, James P. Lardner, and the Business Manager, King Howard. The excellent editorials, which received praise from every source, the In Passing Column, so cleverly conducted by Gladwin A. Hill, and the Alumni Column, which keeps the students in touch with the activities and accomplishments of Andover's graduates at college and elsewhere, have all aided in raising the publication to its present high standing. This year The Phillippian has proven conclusively its importance and usefulness as an adequate instrument for binding together the students and the faculty, in regard to conveying suggestions, ideas, and opinions from one to the other by means of frank communications and editorials which criticise or praise one thing or another, point out needs, and suggest solutions to school difficulties and problems. All the articles published this year underwent a painfully careful inspection and correction to insure accuracy, clarity, and pertinency, which are absolutely essential. Above all the editorial board has taken every opportunity to add material of immediate interest and of an amusing nature.

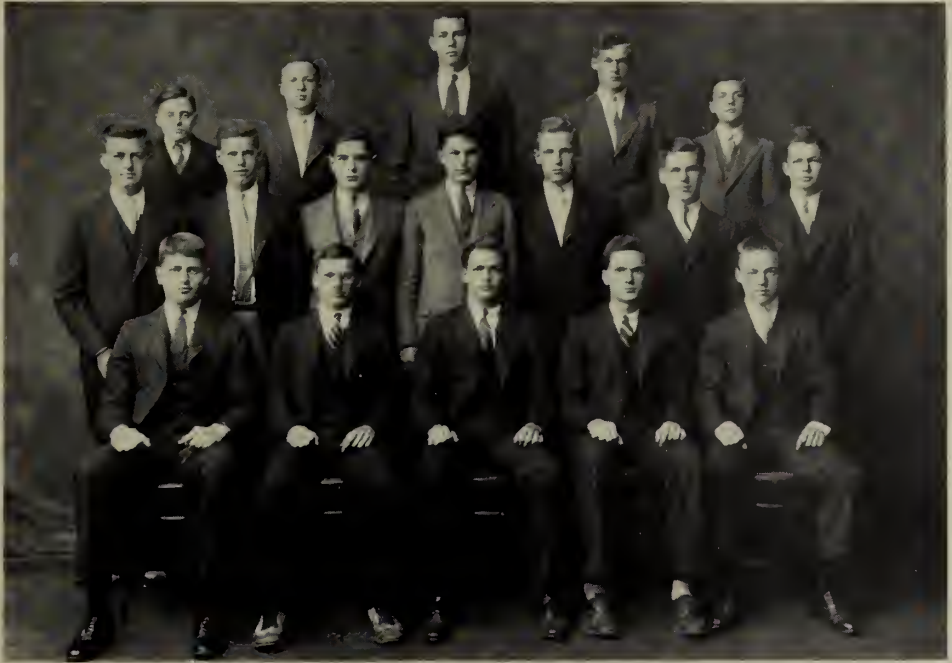

The standards that were last year raised so high in comparison to the year before have already been exceeded, and if the new board with Lyman Spitzer, Jr. as Editor-in-Chief, and Gladwin A. Hill as Managing Editor, lives up to expectations, The Phillippian will reach the peak of perfection indeed. The Business Board, having suffered considerably this last year because of the prevailing depression, looks forward, with William Keeney as Business Manager, to a decidedly better year.

THE "Pot Pourri", now in its thirty-ninth year, has developed from a mere pamphlet of graduating class statistics issued once a year under the name of the "Masque" to the present day annual, intended to furnish a permanent record of the activities of each school year in writing and in pictures, and to provide Andover men with an intimate review of their school-days on the hill.

After the "Masque" had failed miserably in its brief presentation of senior history, it was reorganized under the name of the "Pot Pourri". New ideals and principles were put into this reorganization, and these same ideals have remained up to the present day as a foundation.

Of course, a year-book like the "Pot Pourri" with so much ground to cover and with such limited resources naturally becomes quite stereotyped in form. While we of the present board have made no great changes, we hope that all future boards will do their little bit towards making the book better.

MIRROR BOARD

THE MIRROR, again under the leadership of Mr. Blackmer, has made remarkable improvement since its reorganization last year. There was a majority of the staff of last year who returned to the board this fall, and to their efforts much of the improvement is due.

In addition to the features retained from last year, others have been introduced, such as a book review section, excerpts from letters received by the business board, etc. The cover designs have been changed for a more modernistic and attractive style. As was the case last year, four issues were planned and published during the year.

Much credit is due Mr. Blackmer and his assistants for the successful efforts they have expended to make the magazine a better one. Phillips Academy may justly be proud of this product of her literary geniuses.

A GAIN this year many "preps" were saved in their hour of need. The Blue Book, a handy little note book containing all of the school regulations, is given to the students at the beginning of the school year. Its purpose is to familiarize them with school rules and to serve as a general hand-book. It is financed by the proceeds of its advertising section. There have been very few changes since its establishment in 1921.

A large squad containing six letter men answered the call of the gridiron last fall. This group held many promising new men, and Coach Shepard and his assistants—the Messrs. Benton, Dake, Hagenbuckle, and Billhardt—looked forward to a successful season. It culminated in the annual Andover-Exeter game, which Andover entered the underdog, as usual. Weather conditions were perfect. The field was dry; the sky gray and windless. Andover kicked off, and the Red and Gray marched down the field for a touchdown. This was followed by two scores by the Blue in rapid succession. The third quarter saw the Exonians take the lead again by means of a touchdown and a field goal, but, nothing daunted, the Blue passed her way down the field and over the line for the final score. Soon after, the whistle blew, and Andover had won the fifty-first annual game, 20 to 16. Andover's passing attack in this game was superb, and Captain King must be congratulated on his all-round playing. H. W. Davis, veteran guard of three campaigns, was elected to lead the Blue in nineteen thirty-one.

The first game of the year, that with the Tufts Freshmen, was lost 7 to 0. The scoring was done against the Andover third team, but the varsity, on entering the game, was unable to overcome this handicap. In this encounter the Blue line showed great potential power.

Andover easily overcame New Hampton 37 to 0 a week later. From the opening whistle there was no doubt as to the outcome of the game, for the Blue team totally eclipsed their opponents. Captain King showed his customary great prowess.

Andover received her second defeat at the hands of the Yale Yearlings, 6 to 0. Andover threatened continually but failed whenever within scoring distance. O'Neil and Gardner starred for the Blue.

On the following Saturday Dartmouth brought down to Brothers Field a heavy, fast team which defeated the Blue 14 to 6. Again and again, however, Andover, led by Captain King and Bird, approached the green goal line, only to lose the ball by fumbles.

The team's third hard consecutive game, that with Dean, was played under the most adverse weather conditions, the field, ball, and players being soaked continually by a cold sleet. Largely because of this, for Andover could not use her powerful passing attack, a heavier team defeated the Blue, 18 to 0.

In the sixth game of the season Andover easily vanquished Huntington 39 to 0, and on the following Saturday fought to a scoreless tie with the New Hampshire Freshmen. In the game with New Hampshire neither team showed very much ability as a unit. Andover played without Captain King and O'Neil, and their absence was felt severely. Foreman was outstanding for the Blue.

On the fifteenth of November Andover defeated her ancient rival, Exeter, 20 to 16.

Baseball

In honor of the baseball team of 1930 the only victory bonfire of the season was kindled on Andover Hill. Coach Billhardt, with the able assistance of Coach Donovan, produced an epic-making and a jinx-breaking team from four lettermen and from a number of former squad and club men. Some few new men, as well, were used. The season opened with a disheartening defeat at the hands of the Boston College Freshmen, 6 to 4, but in the following game the Blue revenged itself by nosing out Tufts Freshmen, 6 to 5.

On the following Wednesday the Andover batsmen crossed the plate nine times in the game with Lawrence High School, while the snappy pitching of John Broaca kept the visitors scoreless. On April 30 a powerful St. John's team administered to the Blue their second defeat, and despite the fact that Broaca pitched a fine game, the opposing batters rounded the bases seven more times than did the Blue, leaving a 16 to 9 score.

Yale '33 also emerged on top in a hard fought struggle which netted them six runs against the four which Andover scored. However, an 11 to 5 victory over the Harvard Seconds seemed to restore spirit to the team, and as a result the games following this victory were much more spirited. Captain Kimball and his team quite outclassed Dartmouth '33 by beating them 9 to 5 on their own field. Cushing fell next victim, and the Blue carried off an 11 to 4 majority. Huntington School was then vanquished 10 to 5, and in a trip to Cambridge Andover overcame Harvard '33, 8 to 4. This march of triumph was stopped abruptly when a hard hitting Dean team trounced the Andover boys 10 to 0.

Having learned their lesson from victory and defeat, the Blue batters pounded their way triumphantly through the rest of the schedule, and John Broaca thrilled the stands with his phenomenal pitching. Nashua lost a close game by a score of 4 to 2, and in the next game Andover showed her qualities as hard hitters by defeating Holy Cross Freshmen 13 to 6. The last pre-season game was that with New Hampshire '33 when the Andover team won 8 to 4.

Then came the day when Captain Kimball and his Blue supporters made baseball history and covered themselves with glory by repulsing their Crimson rivals under the leadership of the redoubtable Frank Spain. At no time was victory for either team a certainty, and the menace of the Exeter batters held everyone breathless until the last strike of the game. Although Broaca is the name which will longest be remembered for that contest, it was the assistance of the other players which made victory the fruit of perfect teamwork. This 4 to 2 victory was the tensest, hardest fought, and finest game of the season.

SECOND BASEBALL TEAM

A VIEW OF GEORGE WASHINGTON HALL AND RABBITS POND

Track

The annual track clash with Exeter, in which Andover was destined to suffer defeat for the first time in eight years, was a long time off when Andover's Track Team, backed by Coaches Shepard and Shields and seven returning letter men, began its 1930 season in eager anticipation of a successful series of meets. Captain Jackson could always be counted on for a first in the shot put, and the three veteran pole vaulters—Brown, Pierce, and Pickett—promised for the year a clean sweep in that event. The other 1929 "A" men were equally promising in their events.

On April 21, Andover started the season by defeating Harvard, 68 to 58. Though the Blue won no running events, it took second and third places in several. Pierce broke the existing pole vault record by clearing the bar at 12 feet.

A week later M. I. T. suffered a sad defeat. Andover taking 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places in the pole vault, hammer throw, javelin, shot put, and discus. Pierce broke his own record by vaulting 12 feet 5 inches, helping the Blue to score 78 2-3 points to the opponents' 47 1-3.

The next week Andover lost badly to the Yale Freshmen, whose ranks were strengthened by seven old P. A. stars. Badman, a junior, nearly won the high jump at 5 feet 11 inches but was just edged out by Moore, a former Andover track man. The final score was 83-43.

On the 10th of May, for the first time in ten years, the Blue failed to carry away from Cambridge the Harvard Interscholastics pennant, taking third place with 36 points. Pierce set a new record of 12 feet 5 15-16 inches, one of the highest spots of the season, and Jackson took a first in the shot put.

The following Saturday, in the encounter with Dartmouth, Kimball won the 100 yard dash in 10 2-5 seconds against the wind, while Captain Jackson won the shot put and Duchesne the mile. The final score was Dartmouth 78 1-2, Andover 47 1-2.

A week later Andover lost to Worcester, the winner of the 1930 Harvard Interscholastics, by the close score of 65 1-2 to 60 1-2. Brown set a new vault record of 12 feet 7 inches.

On May 31 the team journeyed to New Hampshire and lost to Exeter for the first time since 1922. The score was 70 1-2 to 55 1-2. The Blue showed the superiority in field events that it had shown all year by taking first place in the hammer throw, high jump, and shot put, and by making a clean sweep in the Pole Vault and Javelin. The Red and Gray, however, totaled enough first and second places in the runs and seconds and thirds in the field to carry away the meet. The high spot of the day and of the season came when Kimball was borrowed from his winning baseball team to win the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

POLO TEAM

LAST Spring the Polo team had four outside games scheduled, but unfortunately, on account of wet ground, only one of these games and one practice game were played.

The first game was with the local "Steam-Rollers". It was played at Andover and the Blue team suffered a defeat of 10-2 due mainly to the spectacular playing of Captain Nat Clark who was playing for the opposition.

The next Saturday, however, the team traveled to the Myopia Hunt Club near Hamilton, Mass., and defeated a fighting Harvard Freshman team 3-0. The Harvard men were better mounted than the Andover team, but their stickwork and team play were very much inferior to that of the Blue. Captain Clark and Royal were the outstanding men for Andover shooting two and one goals respectively.

Captain Clark, Captain-elect Royal, Wickwire, and Schoellkopf received their letters.

In the National rating held this winter in New York both Captain Royal and Schoellkopf received a rating of one goal.

Hockey

With only three veterans among the group which answered the call for hockey candidates last winter, Coach Eaton faced a difficult task in rounding out a team capable of upholding Andover's record on the ice. Captain Gardner and Wheeler filled the defence positions, but Wolcott was the only letter man in the forward line. Injuries also kept down the efficiency of the team for a large part of the season, as Bartow, Wolcott, and Sumner were incapacitated in turn. In spite of these handicaps Mr. Eaton developed a team which at times showed unusual fight and power on the ice, and finished the season with a record of four wins, five losses, and one tie.

Andover's work in the first game against M. I. T. Freshmen was very ragged, but one of Captain Gardner's long shots slipped by the visitors' goalie for the lone tally of the game, thus opening our season with a victory.

The New Hampshire Freshmen were the first to take Andover's measure. They won in a closely waged encounter by the score of one to nothing. At New Haven the following week, Yale '34's powerful sextet overwhelmed the Andover skaters, winning easily 8 to 1.

Against the Melrose High School team, Andover displayed the most inspired hockey of the year. Coach Eaton's charges held in check an excellent team to a 3 to 3 tie. The Blue continued their good playing in the next game, but were out-classed by Newton High School. Bad ice made it necessary to cancel the game with Belmont Hill School.

After their rest the Blue renewed their activities on the ice by winning three games in a row. St. John's was the first victim. Andover making six goals to its opponents, two. Dummer Academy next met the Blue. Because of the splendid showing against St. John's, Andover was picked to win. But not until ten minutes of overtime had been played was a Blue victory assured. Wolcott was again the man to put in the last goal, bringing the final count to three for Andover and two for the visitors. Andover easily ousted the Northeastern freshman team, 4 to 0, when Fawcett made two tallies in rapid succession.

The Boston Garden was the site for Andover's two final games. Just prior to the Exeter contest, Harvard '34 downed the Blue, 4 to 0. Since Exeter had previously defeated this same team, Andover's prospects for victory in the Exeter game took a decided slump. Nevertheless, Captain Gardner led his men onto the ice primed to give the Red and Gray a battle. It must be said to Andover's credit that though soundly beaten, 6 to 1, they went down with colors flying, fighting to the last. Captain Gardner and Wolcott were the Blue's outstanding players, Gardner scoring Andover's lone score.

Swimming

A smashing 41 to 25 victory over Exeter on March 7 brought to a close an eminently successful season for Coach Roscoe Duke's Blue mermen. Starting the year with such experienced swimmers as Captain King, Fry, French, Buckingham, and Breed back in harness, the prospects for a red letter season looked exceedingly bright for Andover, and the Blue natators ably lived up to expectations, winning four meets and losing only three—all by very narrow margins.

Entering the first meet without the services of many regulars, Andover was defeated by a strong outfit from the Boston Boys' Club by a 40 to 26 score.

The following week, however, a reorganized Blue team easily defeated the swimmers from Gardner High School by the decisive score of 44 to 22. Captain King was the outstanding swimmer in both of these first meets, winning the 50 and 100 yard swims each time.

An unlucky occurrence at New Haven, when one of our relay swimmers tried to turn too soon, cost the P. A. team a decision to the strong Yale Freshmen aggregation. Although highly favored over the "prep" school men, the college tanksters were only able to eke out a hard-earned victory at 37 to 29. Andover's representatives made a fine showing in all the events, and had it not been for the unfortunate relay occurrence, they might very possibly have returned victors.

In the next meet Coach Duke's swimmers nosed out the Harvard Freshmen, 34 to 32. The Freshmen put out an unexpectedly strong team, which kept the final result in doubt until the last race.

Huntington and Worcester academies were next met on successive Saturdays. Both schools boasted unusually fine teams, but were successfully held in check by the Blue swimmers. The final score of the former meet was 33 to 33. Due to a new ruling which states that the winner of a tie contest should be the team receiving the most first places, Huntington received the decision by virtue of her four firsts to Andover's three. Worcester, however, was downed 35 to 31 the following week. Lee, the visitors, fastest man, won two events, but his efforts failed to capture the meet for his team.

After eight years of fruitless attempts to vanquish Exeter in the pool, this year's overwhelming victory was doubly sweet to Coach Duke. Andover excelled in nearly every department, and to make the Red and Gray's defeat more convincing, the second team from Andover also won decisively. Three new men, Woodlock, Winfield, and Lewis competed for Andover in this contest. Breed broke the series record in the backstroke and Wilson of Exeter was pressed so closely by Fry, Andover's stellar 200-yard man, that he also was forced to break the dual meet record to win. The Blue's relay team again tied the new pool record set by them earlier in the year.

Soccer

The 1930 soccer team defeated Exeter for the third successive time by the score of 3 to 0. The game was played on the Exeter field with a perfect day for the event. At the opening of the game the Exeter team tried to take the Blue by surprise. After a very few minutes, however, Exeter took the defensive and held it for the rest of the game, except for a few outbursts which gained them nothing. In the opening half Allis scored the first goal, and the other two were made by Vincent in the second half. Captain Wolcott played his best game of the year and was backed by the smooth-working combination of the forward line and the supreme passwork of the backs.

The nucleus for this year's team was formed around only four of last year's letter men. At first, prospects for the coming season looked rather unfavorable; there was a great deal of room for improvement. After three weeks of hard practice Coach Ryley was pleased to see that his team made an unusual improvement. With a little more practice the team was ready to start off for its undefeated season.

The first game came on October 10th when the Andover team traveled to Marion to meet Tabor. The playing in this game was of a mediocre calibre, as the season had not yet advanced far enough to afford the team more experience. The score was Andover 2, Tabor 0.

The Yale Freshmen were the next to bow to the Blue team. Although their team was composed of nearly all of last year's Andover squad, who are now at Yale, they were beaten two to one.

On October 25, our ancient foes from Worcester came up to test their strength against the ever-improving Blue eleven. The entire game was played in a heavy rain, which made the kicking extremely difficult. The team played very well in this game considering the fact it had never before competed in wet weather, and in return it won 3-0.

Ten days went by before the next game. The Harvard Freshmen then journeyed out for the closest game of the year. After two very even halves, both teams were tied 1 to 1. Two five-minute overtime periods failed to bring victory to either team; consequently, the original score became final.

On November the 8th, Andover, with a somewhat changed line-up, defeated the weak M. I. T. Freshmen 6 to 0, thus keeping a clean slate for the preliminary season.

Three days later the team traveled to Exeter where they gave the Red and Gray a good trouncing and ended another undefeated season for an Andover soccer team.

Wrestling

Only two letter men remaining from last year's team reported to Coach Carlson at the beginning of the current wrestling season. Of these two, Townend alone was able to compete, as Captain-elect Brown was forced out of competition due to a knee injury sustained in football. Although handicapped by this noticeable lack of veterans, a team was turned out which completed what might be termed a moderately successful season, losing only to the more experienced grapplers of the Yale and Harvard Freshmen. Coach Carlson developed especially strong men in the two lighter classes, Crawford in the 125 lb. class going the whole season undefeated, and Shallenberger losing only one match in the 115 lb. division.

The season's first two matches resulted in overwhelming victories for the Blue matmen. Brown and Nichols was first downed by the one-sided score of 25 to 8, and two weeks later the Tufts Freshmen were beaten 25 to 6. Injuries which dogged the team all year appeared in the latter match when Elliott received a shoulder burn which kept him out of the approaching Taft meet.

On January thirty-first the Taft team came to Andover to try their skill against the Blue and did well to hold Andover down to an 18 to 18 tie. This was by far the most exciting meet of the season, as the scores piled up slowly and the spirit of the student body was exceptional. Captain Townend, Crawford, and Breed were the outstanding men, each winning by a quick fall. The Andover team went to Milton on February eleventh and brought back a 21 to 10 victory.

A week later, the Blue team made a trip to New Haven where it was defeated 19 to 8 by the powerful Yale Freshmen. The only two men to win were Captain Townend and Crawford. There were several ex-Andover men, who did most of the damage to their old schoolmates. The most outstanding match was that between the Shallenberger brothers in the 115 lb. class. Shallenberger of Yale finally won by a decision after a very hard fought match. Although losing, the team enjoyed the trip and the courteous way in which it was treated.

At this point, two of the regular wrestlers were disabled by pink-eye, leaving a gap hard to replace. The last meet of the season came on February twenty-eighth when the Harvard Freshmen beat Andover 16 to 13. Crawford completed his record of being undefeated for the whole season in this meet. The other bouts were very close as each man was a very even match for his opponent.

Basketball

The basketball season of 1931 was decidedly the most successful of the past four years. An abundance of excellent new material in addition to the three returning letter men, Kellogg, Kettle, and Howard, gave Coach Billhardt ample material with which to work, and much credit is due him for the superiority of team work as well as for the individual ability which he developed. Manager M. H. Donahoe had arranged a long and exceptionally well balanced preliminary schedule for the Blue. The team gave evidence of their fine playing throughout the season, but their highest degree of excellence was not reached until just before the Exeter game. This contest took place on March 7th at Exeter, and despite several minor injuries to some of the players including Meighen, the high scorer of the season, the team was at the top of its form. The 20-19 score indicates both that the Blue efforts were crowned with success and that as a victory it was far from decisive but particularly thrilling.

The opening game netted the Blue a 28-23 victory over the M. I. T. Freshmen, and the defeat of Tufts Freshmen, 30-12, added immensely to the team's confidence.

The defeat at the hands of a powerful Yale Freshman team by the score of 34-20 was by no means unexpected, nor was the 41-22 victory over Dean which followed it.

The most exciting game of the preliminary season occurred when Worcester Academy emerged victorious with a 25-20 score.

The Blue played its first out-of-town game on February 7th when they journeyed to Marion to defeat Tabor Academy, 36-20.

In rapid succession the Blue vanquished Harvard '34, St. Anselm's, and Huntington, the latter by a 32-24 score. As it steadily improved in technique, the team found little difficulty in overcoming Wentworth, 49-25, and somewhat more trouble in defeating Brown '34 by a 32-29 score. Then followed the crowning success of the season, the defeat of Exeter by one point, a margin that was vigorously contested by the Crimson up till the closing moment of the game. The season closed with an anti-climatic victory over Cushing, 34-21.

The outstanding players of the season were Captain Kellogg, Meighen, and Barr, although the excellence of team-work attained for the most part prohibited individual starring. Those members who received their letters were: Captain Kellogg, Manager Donahoe, Barr, Meighen, Sweet, H. D. Jones, Bush, Kettle, K. Howard, Beckwith, and Weld.

Tennis

The tennis team this year had a new coach, Mr. Trowbridge, who turned out a good team in spite of the hardships which confronted him during the season. Andover had four letter men who returned from last year, one of whom became ineligible and therefore unable to play. Captain Neff was out a good part of the season with bad eyes; consequently, there were really only two letter men left, Paine and Evans. Mr. Trowbridge formed his team with these two men, a few of last year's squad, and two or three new men. After a fairly successful preliminary season, the Andover team traveled to Exeter to be beaten 7-2 in a match which showed very good playing and excellent sportsmanship.

The first meet of the season came with the Harvard Seconds, who defeated Andover by a score of 7-2. Paine was the only one to win his singles, while Smith and Paine won their doubles match. In the next meet Andover defeated Malden High by the overwhelming score of 9 to 0. Neff was unable to play and did not return until the match with New Prep in late May.

The next contest was with Newton High and was easily won by the Blue, 8 to 1. At this point, the team began to improve: and when Andover defeated the M. I. T. Freshmen the next week, prospects appeared brighter. The Yale Freshmen broke up all hopes for the future when they came up and gave Andover a thorough trouncing, 9 to 0. All of the Blue men played well in this match, but the Yale delegation was too much for them.

The third defeat of the season came with the Dartmouth Freshmen, who had already beaten Exeter. Andover lost this contest 6 to 1. Before the match was over, a thunderstorm interrupted the contest. Following Dartmouth came the Harvard Freshmen, crushing Andover by winning every match. The preliminary season ended by winning the last two matches with St. Paul's and St. Mark's.

In the final match Andover was forced to defeat by Exeter, who was distinctly superior to the Blue. Crosby was the only Andover man to win in the singles, defeating Delone of Exeter 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. Paine and Roorbach won their doubles match, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. Swan encountered great difficulty against Captain Neff, finally defeating him in three close sets. Merchant was forced to play three hard sets with Roorbach before defeating him.

The following were awarded letters: Captain Neff, Manager Book, Captain-elect Griswold, Paine, Roorbach, Crosby, Evans, and Braggiotti.

LINDENBERG, (Mgr.) SNELLINGS

 FENCING TEAM

LATE in the fall term Coach Barss started work with a very small squad, and he is to be complimented on their successful season. Captain Müller and Tompkins were the only returning letter men, and Macomber was a numeral man from the previous year. These three were backed by H. L. Lowe, B. Snellings, and Sturtevant, the latter two being promoted from the clubs. Captain Müller led his fencers through a difficult season with but one defeat and that at the hands of a powerful freshman team.

The first meet was with Boston English High, on January 31. Andover won, 6-3, in spite of hard opposition and erratic fencing.

On February 7 the squad journeyed to Providence to defeat a team representing the High schools of Providence, again 6-3.

February 18 saw the team at the top of its form. The Blue fencers conceded a hard fought victory to the Harvard Freshmen by the score of 5-4. The meet was the most thrilling of the season, for the outcome was uncertain till the last touch was scored.

Andover's fencers managed to squeeze through with a narrow margin of victory over the Boston College Freshmen on February 25. The meet was held late in the afternoon in the Case Memorial building, and together with poor lighting, fencing, and judging it was lucky that Andover won 5-4.

The M. I. T. Freshmen were the last victims of the season as Andover won with another 6-3 score. This meet was a clean, quick one with a good demonstration of fencing.

Manager Lindenberg arranged a well balanced schedule, and thanks are due to Royal and Griswold for their assistance on various occasions. This year's team is said to be one of the best products of Mr. Barss's tutelage. Those to receive letters were: Captain Müller, Manager Lindenberg, Captain-elect Macomber, Snellings, and Tompkins.

M. S. WILSON

DURING the past year the Radio Club has enforced less stringently the rules of membership, and has welcomed in its limited quarters all those who have been interested in their activities. In the fall term a program of reorganization was carried out, which included the erection of a complete new station, and the addition of much new equipment to that already club property. The antenna system was revised and much experimenting done along technical lines. Although there has necessarily been a limitation of the use of the sending apparatus, the receiving set has been at the disposal of any one interested in its use, and as a consequence several programs have been enjoyed from stations all over the world. Station G5SW in England has especially occupied the attention of the members quite regularly.

Y. Beers, member of last year's organization, and now licensed operator of a Yale station, has been carrying on a regular schedule with the Club, and it is hoped to complete arrangements soon for a weekly schedule with Taft School.

Following the policy instituted last year most of the messages handled have been local, and the actual range of Club activities has been narrowed down with a few exceptions to work in the United States alone. Aside from the actual handling of messages there has been much work done on code practice and general instruction in preparation for obtaining licenses for those members who do not as yet have them. Club membership is open to all but Juniors, and all who are interested are cordially invited to use the Club's receiving apparatus.

AN ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF THE NEW CHAPEL

The Saga of 1931

CANTO THE FIRST

There sits in Mass upon a hill,
A famous school by name of Phil.
Its history is old and proud,
Its standards high, its backers loud.
From the very first it stood
For conservatism good.

But with little warning given,
In the year one nine two seven,
There occurred in Mass's heaven
A tremendous cataclysm.
On September twelfth, the sun
Revealed the class of thirty-one.

First its tune was soft and low,
It went the way the Juniors go.
Its counsel was not asked or given,
Andover then was far from heaven.

In the spring with pomp and praise,
The Academy marked her passing days.
One hundred and fifty robust years,
No wonder the lads gave vent to cheers.

The great event went smoothly and well,
Except for a slip one could hardly foretell.
It occurred in the midst of the monstrous parade
Led by the army in scarlet and braid.

Suddenly a little doggy,
In its mind a trifle foggy,
Darted out with trepidation,
To upset the celebration.

Narrowly it missed the spouse
Of the presidential house.
Between the legs of tall marines,
Ran the pup—its name was Beans.

CANTO TWO

In Lower year we strained our beezer
To keep in touch with Julius Caesar.
But soon we were quite well convinced
That even if he were a prince,
Caesar would have second fiddled,
And his thumbs he would have twiddled,
If among his warring kinman
He could have numbered Georgius Hinman.

* * * *

THIRD CANTO

By Upper fall we dared to raise
Our voices loud in scorn or praise.
No longer need we bow so low.
We were part of the passing show.
Our chimneys glowed with stolen smoke.
Our Radios our Prof's awoke.
The Preps were quite beneath our note.

In spring the customary quiet
Was ruptured by the May Day riot.
Till forced by Stearns themselves to hide,
The boys played Red Rover with Cop McBride.

Internal strife then reared its head.
Not a senior went to bed,
Till was answered then and there,
That dreadfully grim sartorial scare,
What the Well Dressed Man Will Wear,
Shining spats and a smart tuxedo,
Or a bluish coat and a flanneledo.

On June fourteenth without a sigh,
The senior class was seen to die.
Imbued with mighty zeal and fire,
We took over the blazing pyre.

CANTO THE FOURTH

This year was marked by raucous noise.
From the Day and Foxcroft boys.
Revere was always smug and prim.
Not a sound came from within.

But once with daring to be praised,
The Day lads all the school amazed,
By challenging to battlero,
The forces of old Paul Revere.

In preliminary skirmish,
Day did opposition furnish.
But at length becoming weary,
Of the Day boys somewhat dreary,
Revere called out her strong reserves.
Day fought on with shattered nerves.

Up rode now with fuss and clatter,
Revere light horse to fix the matter.
Day retired with little fire,
Tails between their legs in ire.
They cried they'd fought with might and main,
But ran—they said—to fight again.
Revere was always raising cane.

The winter term was undisturbed,
Except for Angie's classic bird.
Deep snow upon the ground did fall,
And vapid text books claimed us all.

With the fresh advent of spring
Our hearts within aloud did sing.
But a tiny tragic note
With that song in air did float.
With spring's enervating germ.
Came the thought—'tis our last term.

As we near the end sedate,
Let us now quite calmly state,
We would gladly change our places,
Cast aside our stately traces,
And be preps again once more,
Just outside the Williams door.

It was a fine HALLIDAY at the baseball game. The KING of ENGLAND, after a ROYAL welcome, ROSE and pitched the first ball. The man who was BATTEN tried his BEST to SLAY the ball but he SWOPE the air in vain. The STERN coach GRAVELY said that he ought to be in the BUSH leagues. The next man SLADE a curve and sent the ball into an APPELYARD surrounded by a BIGWOOD. "This is a CLOS game but we're ABELL to do them up BROWN," he cried. A pitcher with a WING like that ought to SPRING something new and HOLDOM, said the KINGMAN. The batter ought to SPRANKLE the next one he BURNS over, galley WEST. "This does not BODWELL," exclaimed the DEAN of men. "I DONAHOE we SHULL keep the WOLF from the DORR." "Watch the SPARKS fly when I SCHLOTTERER this time," said the batter. "You're out", cried the Umpire. "That's a LEY," said the batter. "MEIGHEN you will have a fight down TOWNE." "You're the worst Ump I ever saw, BARR none," he SPITZER. "I WOODLOCK you in the COOPER." "I'd like to FRENCH FRY you, you MULLER." Then the FOREMAN and the GARDNER rode up on a two WHEELER and tried to PARKER by the TAYLOR shop on the HILL, but they cried, "ALLIS in vain for the FLAGG is at half mast and the game is over."

LETTERS

DEAR SON:—

It pains me greatly to have to admonish you to be a little more economical in your habits and especially to avoid running up charge accounts, for it is much safer to pay as you go. You will also notice that I have been forced to cut down somewhat on the size of your allowance. It is not that I do not wish you to have everything, but as you know, there has been a country-wide depression. I am sure that you will see things the way I do, so let us hope for better things in the future.

With love,
FATHER.

DEAR FATHER:—

I am sure that you are exactly right in respect to the economical precautions that you advise. I will do what I can. You will also notice that the faculty has cut down somewhat on the size of my marks. It is not that I do not want to send you the best of reports, but, as you know, there has been a country-wide depression. I am sure that you will see things as I do, so let us hope for better things in the future.

With love,
SON.

There was a black dude named Lawrence,	There was an old prof named Forbius.
Who talked of nothing but nonsense.	Whose puns got the bird from all of us,
He kept them all yelling,	He'd sit back and chin
His jokes so repelling	Until we gave in
That blackest of bushmen named Lawrence.	That jolly old fellow named Forbius.

"I was the loneliest woman in that Newport Turkish bath," confides Patience Punk, 111 Maple Street, Tewksberry Jct., Connecticut, "and cannot express my untold joy in discovering BLISTERINE. No longer am I shunned at those Wednesday gatherings of the Tewksberry Post of the D. A. R. I have ceased gargling Lysol completely."

Mrs. Thaphuninlife, mother of 32, 234 Salem Street, Andover, Mass., writes in glowing language. "I find BLISTERINE useful in every phase of home hygiene. I use it for everything from an eye-wash to a paint-remover."

(Thank you, Mrs. Thaphuninlife)

"They laughed when I mailed the coupon," cites Cyrus C. Simplex, 3456 Avenue B, New York City (just a minute from Tudor City) "but their mirth was turned to admiration when I was voted the most popular undergraduate at the Alexander Hamilton Business Correspondence School."

WHY IS THE QUALITY OF GRAHAM CARS NEVER QUESTIONED?

The men of Phillips Academy know good cars — that is why you never hear the quality of Graham cars questioned in Andover.

But until you experience the thrill of a trial run in a new Graham Six or Eight you cannot realize the extraordinary smoothness, silence and ease of motoring with the Graham Synchro-Silent Four-Speed Transmission — or the totally new sense of motoring security and enjoyment that a Graham brings you.

FIG. 106-A, Screwed, Jenkins Standard Bronze Globe Valve, with one-piece screw-over bonnet, and slip-on stay-on disc holder. For 150 lbs. steam working pressure, or 250 lbs. oil, water, gas working pressure.

ONLY JENKINS....

have both these advantages

A SCREW-OVER bonnet that is made in one piece and a slip-on stay-on disc holder combine advantages obtainable only in Jenkins Valves ... Standard Bronze Globe, Angle and Cross Valves.

Ask your supply man to let you examine Jenkins Fig. 106-A. Note the large hex faces on the one-piece bonnet which enable you to obtain a good grip with a wrench. You can remove and replace the bonnet over and over again. The sturdy one-piece construction provides strength against springing or distortion. At supply houses everywhere.
